Dear Roger,

Since I wrote to you on 27th January I am afraid it has become necessary for certain reasons at this end to postpone Sheringham's visit for three weeks. My intention is that the same itinerary should be followed exactly, only the arrival in Washington, instead of being on Wednesday, 24th February, would be Wednesday, 16th March. All other dates would be correspondingly put back for exactly three weeks. I am endeavouring to book the same flights on the new dates, and will let you know as soon as I have confirmation of this.

I am very sorry about this, but it has been made necessary by unforeseen circumstances at this end, and I hope that it will not make any difference to you or your Bureau.

I am sending a signal today to give you the earliest possible information about this change.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

J. T. Campbell
